

For Immediate Release
January, 16th, 2018

Animal abuse of battery hens unveiled at largest producer and marketer of shell eggs - Cal-Maine Corp.

Battery hens forced to live in a 'house of horror', in order to produce eggs for human consumption - sold to retailers including Walmart and Publix Supermarket Corporation.

A press conference will be held on Tuesday, January 16th, 2017 at the following address:

Start Time: 11am

Hilton Tampa Airport Westshore Hotel
2225 Lois Ave, Tampa Florida 33607
Bayshore 1 & 2 Room

TAMPA, FLA, January 16, 2018- The Animal Recovery Mission (ARM) is releasing today, its undercover investigation of factory farm animal abuse at the Cal-Maine Egg Farm, located in Lake Wales, Florida. Cal-Maine is a public company and is the largest producer and marketer of shell eggs in the United States.

During ARM's two Month undercover operation, an undercover investigator, a retired US Army serviceman decorated to tours of Afghanistan and Iraq, captured disturbing surveillance footage of battery caged hens. The hens are overcrowded in cages where they are trampled and strangled to death after becoming wedged in the cages. Hens are living amongst dead chickens and die regularly from dehydration, starvation, egg binding and illnesses contracted from forcibly living in unsanitary conditions.

Footage obtained by ARM's Investigator, exposes the most deplorable living conditions and inhumane treatment subjected to laying hens in the egg production industry. The operative documented the hens in overcrowded cages where up to 10 birds were contained in one small battery cage. Inadequate water, food and sanitary environments, involving moving 'walls of cockroaches' existing amongst the trapped birds close quarters, were captured. ARM also witnessed extreme abuse and torture to the hens who were kicked, punched, thrown, slammed against the ground, beaten to death with sticks, pulled apart alive, and jammed in cage doors where they suffered agonizing deaths from being crushed. These brutal actions are being executed by both employees of the facility and managers alike and are clear violations of company codes of conducts and animal welfare policies required to be a humane certified business.

Following its investigation, ARM brought forward evidence from its in-depth investigation to law enforcement agents. As a result, a Cal-Maine manager, known as Matthew, has since been charged with animal cruelty, including excessive and inhumane beating upon animals under his supervision. ARM is currently working with Investigator J. Scarborough with the Polk County Sheriff's Office and assisting in any way needed with their investigation.

The Cal-Maine investigation is a part of ARM's newly developed factory farming division in its efforts to expose crimes against animals in factory settings and to raise awareness to society who are purchasing these products, unaware of the abuse.

Exclusive video of this investigation can be viewed by clicking on this link: <https://vimeo.com/251082120>

The Animal Recovery Mission is a non-profit animal cruelty investigative organization based in Miami Beach, Florida. The Animal Recovery Mission is dedicated to eliminating extreme animal cruelty operations world wide.

####

CONTACT INFORMATION

For further comments and interviews with the founder and lead investigator of ARM, contact Rachel Taylor at taylor@arminvestigations.org More information about ARM also is available at animalrecoverymission.org.